

- Ash Maurya has emerged as a leader in helping bootstrapped online businesses apply Lean Startup ideas. His blog is called Running Lean, and he also has released an eBook of the same name. Both can be found here: <http://www.runningleanhq.com/>
- Sean Murphy on early-stage software startups: <http://www.skmurphy.com/blog/>
- Brant Cooper's Market by Numbers: <http://market-by-numbers.com/>
- Patrick Vlaskovits on technology, customer development, and pricing: <http://vlaskovits.com/>
- The KISSmetrics Marketing Blog: <http://blog.kissmetrics.com/> and Hiten Shah's <http://hitenism.com>

FURTHER READING

Clayton M. Christensen's The Innovator's Dilemma and The Innovator's Solution are classics. In addition, Christensen's more recent work is also extremely helpful for seeing the theory of disruptive innovation in practice, including The Innovator's Prescription (about disrupting health care) and Disrupting Class (about education).

<http://ericri.es/ClaytonChristensen>

Geoffrey A. Moore's early work is famous among all entrepreneurs, especially Crossing the Chasm and Inside the Tornado. But he has continued to refine his thinking, and I have found his latest work, Dealing with Darwin: How Great Companies Innovate at Every Phase of Their Evolution, especially useful.

<http://ericri.es/DealingWithDarwin>

The Principles of Product Development Flow: Second Generation Lean Product Development by Donald G. Reinertsen.