

- more on Dropbox's success, see "Dropbox: The Hottest Startup You've Never Heard Of" at <http://tech.fortune.cnn.com/2011/03/16/cloud-computing-for-the-rest-of-us/>
6. This description courtesy of Lifehacker: <http://lifehacker.com/5586203/food-on-the-table-builds-menus-and-grocery-lists-based-on-your-familys-preferences>
 7. This list was compiled by my colleague, Professor Tom Eisenmann at Harvard Business School, Launching Technology Ventures for a case that he authored on Aardvark for his new class. For more, see <http://platformsandnetworks.blogspot.com/2011/01/launching-tech-ventures-part-i-course.html>
 8. <http://www.robgo.org/post/568227990/product-leadership-series-user-driven-design-at>
 9. <http://venturebeat.com/2010/02/11/confirmed-google-buys-social-search-engine-aardvark-for-50-million/>
 10. This is the heart of the Innovator's Dilemma by Clayton Christensen.
 11. For more, see <http://bit.ly/DontLaunch>

Chapter 7. Measure

1. By contrast, Google's main competitor Overture (eventually bought by Yahoo) had a minimum account size of $50, which deterred us from signing up, as it was too expensive.
2. For more details about Farb's entrepreneurial journey, see this Mixergy interview: <http://mixergy.com/farbood-nivi-grookit-interview/>

Chapter 8. Pivot (or Persevere)

1. <http://www.slideshare.net/dbinetti/lean-startup-at-sxsw-votizen-pivot-case-study>
2. For more on Path, see <http://techcrunch.com/2011/02/02/>